

Hans Brehmer

“When God Was A Boy”

Pianist-Singer-Songwriter presents a collection of new jazz tunes with dry lyrical twists and wit. It's like Dave Frishberg meets Randy Newman, in a jazz trio setting.

Life meets jazz.

“There are some twisted sentiments here...”

Happy Birthday To Me

*I'm 38 today, my back's gone out.
I'm well on my way. I'm takin' the scenic route
And I will tell you all about the view
just as soon as my prescription lenses come through.
Happy Birthday To Me...*

*I'm lookin' in the mirror and I've been had.
I see the same lines, the ones that are on my dad.
And I heard his words the other day
comin' through my mouth,
things I swore I'd never say.
Happy Birthday To Me...*

*...it's just a bit different now.
Like elevator music makes me sing along and when I talk about grass I'm referring to my lawn...”*
